

Idaho's Tax Structure

Exemptions, Credits, Exclusions and Deductions

INTRODUCTION

This report is a comprehensive guide to the structure of Idaho's primary General Fund revenue sources. It provides a detailed examination of the various departures from the broadly defined base of the income and sales taxes. These two taxes supply well over 90% of the revenue that goes to the General Fund.

The everyday vernacular refers to these departures from the tax base as tax breaks. An analogous term used by fiscal analysts is tax expenditures. The most common forms they take in the codification of taxes are exemptions, credits, exclusions, and deductions. The end result is always the same: a tax that is defined on the basis of a broad economic concept (income, consumption, wealth, etc.) is not applied uniformly against the broad base of the tax.

The following pages provide both an inventory and an explanation of Idaho's sales and income tax expenditures. The goal is to facilitate greater understanding of these important elements of Idaho's overall fiscal structure. It is not an attempt to judge the merits of any particular tax expenditure.

The definition of a tax expenditure (for the purpose of this report) is any provision of Idaho law that excludes some portion of the tax base on a selective basis. Two illustrative examples are the sales tax exemption for prescription drugs and the income tax exclusion for interest earned on certain government-issued securities. In the first case a specific type of consumption (prescription drugs) is excused from the sales and use tax. In the second case a specific source of income (interest from government-issued securities) is excused from the income tax.

Limiting the definition of tax expenditures to Idaho tax provisions is arbitrary and is primarily done to limit the scope of this publication. Indeed, many federal income tax provisions have the effect of granting large tax expenditures within Idaho. The mortgage interest deduction is a good example. Although nothing technically prevents Idaho from treating mortgage interest different than the federal tax law, the practical ramifications prevent Idaho from making large deviations from federal tax law. Consequently, this report ignores tax expenditures that originate in federal tax law. It does, however, look at Idaho departures from the federal tax structure and treats them as Idaho-specific tax expenditures.

Some apparent tax breaks are not really tax expenditures, because their impacts lie outside of the basic definition of the tax base. The sales tax "exemption" for goods purchased for resale is one such case. This is because the sales tax is intended to apply to retail sales, and the "exemption" for goods purchased for resale is the statutory mechanism used to differentiate between retail and wholesale trade. The income tax rate brackets are another example of a tax policy that impacts the amount of revenue produced from the fundamental tax base, but are not considered a selective "exemption" for purposes of this report. That's because all income that falls into a particular bracket is taxed at that bracket's rate, regardless of the overall income (or any other characteristic) of the taxpayer.

This report includes estimates of the cost of each tax expenditure. This is an estimate of how much tax payment is being avoided by the beneficiaries of the tax expenditure. It is not an estimate of the revenue that would be raised by eliminating the tax expenditure. Several additional factors need to be considered when producing a revenue estimate associated with any particular tax law change.

In many cases, especially those involving substantial structural changes, tax law changes could reasonably be expected to change the economic behavior of taxpayers. The fiscal estimates included in this report are based on current economic behavior, meaning they reflect an environment that includes the effect of the tax expenditure. It should be noted that in many cases even the fiscal estimates based on the actual tax structure are difficult to produce. Attempting to factor in behavioral adjustments can add a substantial amount of complexity to the fiscal analysis.

Another factor that is not reflected in these fiscal estimates is the amount of tax gap. The tax gap is the difference between the theoretical amount of revenue associated with eliminating a particular tax expenditure and the actual revenue that would be realized. The probable size of the “tax gap” is impacted by a number of variables, including the manner in which a tax exemption is removed and the amount of resources that are allocated to compliance and collection efforts. Clearly these are variables that are “unknowable” prior to any specific proposal for law changes.

Tax expenditures are placed in the law for a variety of reasons. The primary reasons are to encourage a particular behavior on the part of taxpayers, to provide fiscal relief to particular taxpayers, or to simplify the administration of the tax laws.

In many cases, tax expenditures have an alternative, appropriation-based method for accomplishing the policy objective behind the tax expenditure. Often, the appropriation-based alternative will have significant differences (relative to the tax expenditure) in terms of overhead cost and public policy ramifications.

Overhead cost comparisons associated with tax expenditures vs. appropriations depend on the specific circumstances of the particular tax expenditure/appropriation alternative being considered, and the “value” of both is difficult to examine.

This is particularly the case with sales and income tax expenditures that are made in the context of confidential tax returns. This means that the beneficiaries are only known to the tax authorities. The secrecy of sales and income tax information is protected under felony penalty provisions. The confidentiality associated with tax expenditures seriously inhibits close scrutiny, and makes it difficult or impossible to establish the “value” (as opposed to the cost) of the tax expenditure.

Tax expenditures “cost” the public in the form of lost revenue that could otherwise be used to fund appropriations or reduce tax rates. However, the estimates of the amount of lost revenue contained in this report do not take into consideration the overhead that would be needed to collect the lost revenue. That overhead can vary from very large, as in the case of tax expenditures that are for the purpose of simplifying tax administration, to negative, as in the case of a tax expenditure that in itself increases the administrative costs associated with the particular tax.

INDIVIDUAL AND CORPORATE INCOME TAX

The Idaho income tax is a tax levied on individuals and corporations based on their income during a 12-month tax period. In the case of businesses (proprietorships, partnerships, and corporations) the concept of income is not gross receipts, but rather is most closely associated with the economic concept of profit.

The rate of Idaho's income tax is a flat 8% on corporate income and a maximum of 8.2% on individual income. The individual income tax rate is graduated on taxable income below $40,000 for married taxpayers and below $20,000 for single taxpayers. Rates on individuals vary from a low of 2% (on incomes below $2,000 and $1,000 for married and single taxpayers, respectively) to the top rate of 8.2%.

The tax expenditures granted under the income tax can be classified into two principle categories: exemptions based on the source of income (exclusions); and exemptions based on the use of income (deductions and credits). Source exemptions include interest from government securities, capital gains, and social security payments. Use exemptions include donations to educational institutions and purchases of equipment used in business enterprises. Notable features of the income tax structure that are within Idaho's policy discretion but are not considered tax expenditures include: the rate brackets, personal exemptions, and standard deductions. These features of the tax structure have the effect of reducing revenues, but they are not selective with regard to whom they apply.

A special note concerning tax expenditure definitions is relevant in the case of the income tax. Since the foundation of the Idaho income tax is federal adjusted gross income, there are a number of federal tax expenditures that are adopted in Idaho by default. These federal tax expenditures could technically be considered Idaho tax expenditures, since Idaho adopts them by law. However, this report takes the approach that federal tax expenditures related to the definition of taxable income are not Idaho tax expenditures. Thus, the federal tax expenditure associated with the mortgage interest deduction is not considered an Idaho tax expenditure. Similarly, Idaho's exclusion of social security income from the income tax base is treated as an Idaho tax expenditure only to the extent that it exceeds the partial federal exclusion for social security income.

The principal Idaho income tax expenditures relating to uses of income are:

- Investment Tax Credit
- Other States Tax Credit

SALES AND USE TAX

The Idaho sales tax is a transaction tax levied on the purchase or use of goods and services by consumers, where consumers may be either individuals or businesses. Transactions involving purchases by businesses are included in the sales tax base if the goods or services are consumed by the purchasing business. Transactions involving purchases of goods or services for resale (including components or parts used in manufactured goods) are not considered a part of the sales tax base. The legal incidence of the Idaho sales tax is on the purchaser. Sales taxes are distant relatives of value-added taxes.

The rate of Idaho's sales tax is a flat 5%. No partial exemptions exist (that is, nothing is taxed at a rate below 5% but above 0%).

Consumption, as an economic concept, can be divided into consumption of goods and consumption of services. The purchase of a hotel room is classified as a service, since it is only the right to use the hotel room for a limited time that it is being purchased. Purchase of a tent is classified as a good since the buyer becomes the owner of a tangible item. An interesting characteristic of Idaho's sales tax is that unless specifically exempted, purchase of a tangible good is a taxable event. On the other hand, the purchase of a service is generally not taxable unless the service is specifically included in the list of taxable transactions. Three major service categories that are completely taxable (and therefore are excluded from this compilation of tax expenditures) are "Hotels and Other Lodging Places" (SIC Major Group 70), "Amusement and Recreation Services" (SIC Major Group 79), and "Motion Pictures" (SIC Major Group 78).

The tax expenditures granted under the sales tax can be classified in three principal categories: exemptions based on the use of the good or service, exemptions based on the specific good or service being purchased, and exemptions based on the individual or entity making the purchase or sale.

TAX STRUCTURE DETAIL

Specific Idaho tax expenditures are detailed in the sections below. Each section contains the expenditure's Idaho Code reference, a brief description of its features, and its significant legislative and judicial history.

INDIVIDUAL AND CORPORATE INCOME TAX

Income tax expenditures fall into one of three categories: exclusions, deductions, or credits. Exclusions are sources of income that are wholly or partially exempt from taxation. Deductions are uses of income (either actual spending or proxies for actual spending) that are wholly or partially exempt from taxation. Credits are deductions from the tax itself that are expressed either as a percentage of some qualifying amount or as a lump sum. Credits may be further divided into those that are refundable, meaning that they can exceed the taxpayer's tax liability and actually lead to a refund, and those that are non-refundable, meaning that they are only usable if there is a tax liability to offset.

In general, deductions and exclusions must be used in the year they are incurred, with the exception of business net operating loss (NOL) carry forwards. Credits may be carried forward for limited time periods in certain cases where specifically authorized in the law.

One notable feature that applies to all income tax expenditures is their interaction with federal income tax. Unlike the sales tax, the Idaho income tax is deductible from federal income taxes. This applies to all corporate taxpayers and to individual taxpayers who itemize their deductions. This means that the "benefit" of an Idaho income tax expenditure is split between Idaho taxpayers and the federal treasury. The terms of the split depend on the marginal federal tax rate of the taxpayer. For a taxpayer in the 36% federal bracket, the benefit of each dollar of Idaho tax expenditure is split $.64 to the taxpayer, $.36 to the federal treasury. This feature of the income tax is particularly significant in assessing the cost effectiveness of an Idaho tax expenditure as an incentive for some particular behavior.

1.01 Investment Tax Credit Idaho Code 63-3029B

Description: Idaho's investment tax credit (ITC) is provided to businesses (proprietorships, partnerships, and corporations) that purchase qualifying property for use in their business. The credit amount is 3% of the qualified investment in depreciable property and is not refundable. The credit taken in a given tax year is limited to no more than 45% of the taxpayer's tax liability as calculated before considering the credit. Credits not used may be carried forward up to seven years from the year of qualifying property purchase. The definition of qualified investment is tied to the old federal ITC (repealed in the Tax Reform Act of 1986), with the exceptions that: a) the equipment must have Idaho situs; and b) motor vehicles under 8,000 pounds do not qualify. Mobile property that is only partially used in Idaho is allowed ITC in proportion to its use in Idaho.

History: Idaho's ITC was enacted in 1982. It was amended in 1987 to prevent its automatic repeal by the federal repeal of ITC in 1986. It was amended in 1992 in response to an Idaho Supreme Court case that changed the interpretation of how the credit is applied to equipment that is used both inside and outside Idaho. It was amended in 1994 to make technical changes relating to unitary corporations. It was amended in 1995 to extend the carryover period from five to seven years, reduce the portion of tax liability that could be offset from 50% to 45%, and eliminated a restriction on replacement property.

The Idaho credit is not allowed if the other state or territory provides a credit for taxes paid to Idaho.

SALES AND USE TAX DETAIL

The following sales tax expenditures can be divided into four broad categories: 2.01 through 2.21 cover sales tax expenditures that are related to the specific uses of goods and services; 2.22 through 2.34 cover sales tax expenditures that are related to specific goods; 2.35 through 2.48 cover sales tax expenditures that are related to specific services; and 2.49 through 2.71 cover sales tax expenditures that are related to specific entities that receive exemptions on either all or part of the purchases or sales they make.

The listing for exempt services requires a special note. While a variety of classification systems are possible, the classification used here follows the structure of the Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) Manual, Executive Office of the President, Office of Management and Budget. This classification system was chosen because it is the basis for reporting a considerable variety of economic data, including that used for estimating the revenue impact associated with the various services delineated.

The SIC coding system is based on the primary activity of the establishment being coded. For example, one of the activities included under the major group heading Personal Services is BarberShops and Beauty Salons. The primary function of these establishments is the performance of haircuts and hair styling, both personal services that are presently exempt from sales tax. However, such establishments will also typically engage in retailing hair care products, transactions that are taxable. Thus, the receipts of a service establishment (such as a barbershop) can contain both exempt and taxable components. This is taken into consideration in the estimates of fiscal impact contained herein.

Another feature of the services classification used in this document relates to the classification of types of services vs. classification of industrial categories. SIC categories include major groupings for Automotive Repair and Miscellaneous Repair Services. Miscellaneous Repair Services includes repairs to televisions, stereos, appliances, tools, watches, jewelry, furniture, and most other tangible property. These two major groups cover the bulk of all "repair services." However, garment repair and shoe repair are included in the major group Personal Services. Also, computer repair is contained in the major group Business Services.

For these reasons, care must be taken in moving from this classification of services (based on SIC definitions) and any other classification of services (based on broader conceptual notions, such as repairs to tangible personal property).

The equipment must be primarily and directly used in the production activity to qualify. Also, the claiming entity must be primarily engaged in a qualifying activity for its equipment to qualify. The only exception to this is logging, where any logging equipment qualifies.

Certain specific exclusions from the production exemption exist. They include: hand tools with a unit purchase price of $100 or less; equipment that is used in activities other than the actual production activity; equipment used in research and development; equipment used in transportation, including motor vehicles and aircraft that are required to be licensed by any state; equipment used to make repairs; any tangible personal property that is or is intended to become a component of real property;

In 1990, logging was moved to a separate section and expanded to include persons who are not primarily engaged in logging. Also, the claiming entity must be primarily engaged in a qualifying activity for its production supplies to qualify. The only exception to this is logging, where any logging supplies qualify.

Certain specific inclusions to the production exemption for supplies exist. They include: repair parts, lubricants, hydraulic oil, coolants, chemicals, catalysts, safety supplies (except for logging), and, in the dairy industry, disinfectants used to clean cow udders or to clean pipes, vats, or other milking equipment. Fuel used in logging trucks is also exempt.

Certain specific exclusions from the production exemption for supplies exist. They include: supplies that are used in activities other than the actual manufacturing, mining, farming, or logging process; supplies used in research or development; supplies used in transportation activities; repair supplies, other than parts for production equipment; any tangible personal property that is or is intended to become a component of real property; supplies used to produce exempted gas, electricity, water, heating materials, literature, or liquor.
